Ashlin Christopher Yost returned to his Heavenly Father on February 19, 2014. He was born on August 19, 1992 in St. George, Utah to Melody and Craig Yost.

“ Ashlin, Kissy, you know that we love you more than life itself. Your mom and sisters can hardly breathe we miss you so bad. You were always such a sweet and happy baby and child. I just don't understand how the wicked can stay and ruin this earth and the sweet and wonderful can be destroyed and leave. One day I'm sure heavenly father will explain. Until we're together again baby boy, mommy loves you

“ This photo shows just how crazy you were. Trying on all these weird wigs at the halloween store. I will never forget how funny you were, how you woke up Megan with this song called The Hives – Main Offender (Mustard Pimp Remix) on new year's day and I just couldn't stop laughing even though Megan was just pissed. I still listen to that song all the time! When I come back to America I'm definitely going to EDC, and I'll think about you. Also I remember my first day in St George and how you said "I thought she would be taller than this...", and how you kept pronouncing my name wrong, as "Sonnee", for months because that's what you had been calling me before I came. The last time I saw you was in Colorado during Spring break. You were staying there a little longer. But then while I thought you'd come back after a week, you didn't, and we didn't ever get the chance to say goodbye. I wish that we had talked to each other some more since I left the US, but unfortunately we didn't... I wish I could turn back time, even if it was only to tell you how much you made my year in the USA. You're awesome Ashlin, and nobody will ever forget you. I hope that all of your family and friends will have the strength to get through this hard time. I'll always think of you as my brother. I love and miss you already. Rest in peace Ashlin...
