“ I met Clint because I work for a vendor at BYU. We became instant friends which probably will not surprise anyone. I was shocked when I found out today he had passed on and couldn't figure out why this person I spent an hour with made such an impact on me. It turns out we're very similar even down to sharing the exact same birthday. Why am I writing this? It's my way of acknowledging what an impact you can have on random people and hoping that his children read this and know that he was guiding them down the path of becoming a great person and to remember everything he taught them as it will serve them well.

“ When I first observed Clint in purchasing at BYU, I was amazed by his diplomacy in difficult situations. He exuded an abundance of leadership, learned rapidly, and endeared himself to those with whom he came in contact.

I am SO sorry for his family, losing such an exceptional father, husband, and human being.

“ Condolences to Clint's wife and children. I worked with him at BYU in ordering for the Sports Medicine department. He is a great man, so easy to work with and so kind. He will be impossible to replace!! Thoughts and prayers to all his family!

“ Clint influenced my family on several occasions since getting to know him about 5 months ago. He was at BYU campus where my son started basketball camp this summer and he came over to welcome him and let him know that he was glad to see him. Clint had recently been made his young men leader at church. He also invited my son to come play basketball at his house with his boys and himself. Most recently, a week prior to his passing, Clint invited my son to attend a church meeting for the men with him and his sons. My son was nervous to go but felt comfortable attending with Clint and his boys. Clint's last text to me was that my son is a wonderful boy and he will encourage his son to continue to invite my son along for activities. He spoke so highly of others especially his wife and children and treated them so well. A few months back he spoke about mothers at church and he praised his wife and thanked her. I was impressed with how he treated his wife and children with gentleness and kindness. I am grateful for the example he showed as a man of great character. My heart goes out to his sweet wife and children who must miss him beyond words. Thank you for making a difference in my family's life.
