“ I remember Uncle Kent used to line us all up in the woods, at the family reunions and make us sing. My favortie song was B is for Bubble, bubble, bubble, bubble. B is for bubble in bubble gum and B is for Brother who bought me some etc. etc. etc. He would lead us with his arms waving all over the place. I can still see his expression on his face when he would point to you and you had to do your part. He would take us on awesome snowmobile rides and we could go to his store and choose whatever we wanted to bring home and make dinner. I remember Todd making the salad with the salad maker. Uncle Kent's home (the church made into a home) was the best vacation place ever. I loved going to West Yellowstone. He would tell us horror stories of the bears eating people because the paramedics were friends with him and told him stories. Uncle Kent is in a better place, but he will always be loved.
