“ Ralph was a very special guy. He still is in my heart. When we would go to family get togethers, I would always have a few questions to ask him about the Church. I don't attend church like Ralph always did, and I felt very comfortable asking him questions and him giving me answers that were easy for me to understand. One day he gave me some scriptures to read and I told him I didn't have a Bible. The next time I saw him, he gave me his mother's Bible to use. I will also cherish that moment when he did that. I eventually bought my own Bible and returned his mother's to him. I will miss Ralph very much. He was and still is very special.

“ While running and jumping were possible in our younger days, Ralph played "Church Ball" with his friends in the ward and stake. He was a good teammate and a worthy opponent. He was a great sportsman about the bruised ribs he carried home from our games and made me feel good about the sore ribs I took home.

It was an honor to raise my hand to sustain him as a new Stake High Councilor. I am sure his contributions to the stake councils were as inspiring as his remarks when on speaking assignments in the stake.

Ralph is a good friend. I will miss him until we can renew our acquaintance. Heaven will be a bit nicer if I can keep him in my life somewhere. - Jack Snodgress
