“ The best friend one could have. We had each others back through all the trials our families faced while in Oregon. We had some great laughs while our families were growing up. I will miss this special ANGEL that was part of my life.

“ I've lost several people close to my heart recently, yet Louise has been the most difficult.

Louise's obituary is concise and very accurate, but the words could never emulate the depth of their truth. We all have family, friends, and others close throughout life. They are special, you are special to them and you know they care. With Louise, from the day I met her, I knew I was LOVED. Louise and her husband Vern created the perfect match. They didn't just care, they truly loved everyone for who they are. Every time my sister and I walked through the door, we instantly felt welcome, relaxed, comfortable being who we were, special and loved.

The first day I met Louise, she unknowingly began helping build the foundation of the person I am today. The way I view the world, the way I strive to carry myself, care about and love others. Obviously I'm better at incorporating what I learned as an adult than as a growing kid, also never patient enough to sit and learn as she worked at her sewing machine!

In 2nd grade my mother was in the hospital over my birthday, ironically with breast cancer. My sister and I stayed with the Martindale's, and Louise planned a surprise birthday party for me. I remember Louise always going 90 miles an hour, so it meant even more to me she would take the time to make my day extra special. In addition, I was made aware it would be one of the best birthdays ever, because Dawn was so excited she could barely hold it in, and by the end of the school day the special party was no longer a surprise ;)

There is no denying the Martindale's know how blessed they are having Louise such a large part of their lives. If there was a perfect person during our time, it is Louise.

“In loving memory of Louise Larson Martindale, Louise, so special she will never be forgotten. Her legacy, having touched the lives of many, far beyond her reach. May she feel peace from pain and a life lived with love for everyone she met.

Love and support to the wonderful Martindale family. Countless who love you are here. Please allow us to help during this difficult time, anything you need, just let us know, even if simply a shoulder to lean on.”

“ Louise always showed kindness and love to us during the nearly 50 years we have known her, Vern, and their family. She has a great sense of humor and she really enjoyed doing things. Louise loved Vern, their children, and grandchildren tremendously and she loved serving in the church. She was a great friend in this life and we look forward to her friendship in the eternities.
