“ i never experienced the stern side of my grandpa, my siblings always told me once i was born he turned 'soft' :) that makes me smile. i vaguely remember him taking me on walks and wagon rides but my sister told me how he loved doing that sort of thing with me. I do remember his love of music, he sang often & with my grandma. He often told me how i need to get big and STRONG he'd grab my arms and tell me you need to get bigger so when people come and fight i can hit them and win! (as he's punching his hand) he was all about being strong, especially when it comes to family. i loved him so much & will miss him like crazy. ofa atu

“ Viliami was a father, a friend, a brother, a musician, but most importantly, he was my grandfather who I loved dearly. I was just five minutes late to saying goodbye to him for the last time on Wednesday October 8th. I was heartbroken when I heard he was gone. It will be rough to get over his loss. Rest in peace grandpa.
