“ Some of my favorite memories of Gail Bradley:

My earliest memories of Gail would be about 28 years ago. I was impressed by how neat and clean she kept her herself, her home and vehicle. She was intelligent, a quick thinker & sharp dresser. She kept her clothes ironed and looking great!... Kenny even commented that she starched and ironed his underwear once! She kept her home organized and clean. Kenny joked that if he got up during the night for a drink of water, she'd make the bed before he'd got back from the kitchen.

She was kind and helpful as well. I remember one day, my car wouldn't start. She drove right over to my home, picked me up and cheerfully drove me around to do all my errands. We had fun visiting as she drove!

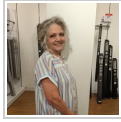

She worked at a grocery store for years and did a great job. She took her attention to detail to work with her. She kept herself looking great, not a hair out of place and was efficient & friendly. She enjoyed her customers. When she had a car accident near her work, she knew the paramedics and ambulance driver by name when they took her to the hospital. They were some of her beloved customers from the store.

After the accident, Gail needed a little help with personal care while she healed. I was a CNA at the time so I went to her home and helped her. She was gracious and appreciative. We enjoyed that time together.

Gail, I wish you all the joy and happiness the next life has to offer. You graduated, your earthly test is over. I imagine your reunion with Kenny was a celebration with the angels of heaven cheering for you both!

Gail and I grew up nextdoor to each other. I had been thinking about her, then found her obituary. I was saddened to read this. The last time I saw her was at her sister Leora passed away. Her other sister Pauline was there as well. I loved the whole family. She was so proud of her son. Although I had lost track of them when our family moved away, I'm grateful to be able to read the kind words of her friends. She was a wonderful person. RIP Gail and know that you were loved by many!

*“ I met Gail when she was likely at her lowest. She was recovering from recent medical issues; she still had other medical issues, and she was alone.
I didn't intend to get attached or bond as a mother/daughter. But, Gail even at her lowest was a soul you couldn't help but love.
I had high hopes we would figure out this medical issue and be able to thrive, but that wasn't meant to be. She is free now. She is with Kenny in no pain. I am happy for her. I am sorry for her struggles here on earth.
I truly miss her for our time spent, but I am better for that in the past, present, and eternity.
RIP Grace, patient, then mother and friend.*

“ I truly admired Gail. She had a hard and often lonely life, yet every time I was with her she had a great attitude. She was so grateful for anything I did for her. I took her to doctors appointments and she was so friendly to all the staff and they all knew and loved her. She was uninhibited and honest like a child. I am so grateful Gail is with her best friend, Ken now. Oh how she missed him!! I met her after Ken had passed away but I felt like I knew him by the way she talked about him and the memories she shared. I will miss Gail!! I'm just so grateful she is at peace. 🙏 I love you my friend! ❤️

“ I remember when I first met Gail she was so kind to wanna help us with our dog she had gotten very sick and we didn't have the money to have her seen by the vet and Gail insisted on helping us out with getting her seen. She would not accept the money back. She was a very sweet lady whom had a very big heart!! I loved her so much infact from the first day of meeting her I started calling her mom and she loved that!! She is going to be greatly missed!! And was loved by so many!! Rlp mom, you were the best
