“ Jaci I loved meeting your parents when you married my brother Danny. They were such a sweet pair! And my parents were so happy. I'll never forget his great sense of humor. Remember that first meeting with them at a restaurant ? My dad was bold enough to play a practical joke on them, knowing how patriotic and conservative your parents were, he went into a long tirade as if he were the worst far left liberal, which was stepping on every conservative , moral toe he had. With your mom squeezing his knee under the table , and my mom kicking my dad under the table, just as your Dad was reaching his limit, My dad came clean! I think they went back and forth from that te on to have fun pulling one over on the other on. What fun they had. When I think of him , it's that huge smile and laughter
